Student Letter

Nice to meet y'all, I'm Giacomo, I'm 16, and I am from Italy.

For first I would like to become an exchange student to improve my English and to build my future . Then to do a good experience that would improve my self to the world so to become a better person and also to have a detachment from my comforts zone.

My family is composed by 4 people. Me, my brother, and my parents. My family is really an open mind family because they really trust me and I have a good relationship with all of them. The relationship with my family is very good because I usually do a lot of things with them but the most of the time i do something with my brother because we are always together. The relationship with my friends is pretty good because I have few friend but they are real. My parents are really happy about it because is something that make me happy but at the same time they are sad because I'm not with them for a long time. I would like to talk about the relationship with Gabriele one of my best friend because I know him from when I was A child and he always give me a good suggestion and if I'm coming over there is also because he inspired me because he already did one year in Florida and now is nyc.

I would like to complete to many target during this year for example to improve my English and to grow and to understand everyone and become more open.
