Student Letter

My name is Asma and I am highly thrilled to meet you guys and to get to know you in person. I am a high school girl, aged 16, living in the most astonishingly beautiful country in the Mediterranean sea, Tunisia!

Every day, I wake up to my lovely dog "Daisy" and the smell of a tasty breakfast prepared by my sister and dad. As a family, We love doing activities together; We enjoy watching movies, cooking different meals, debating on a variety of subjects... Besides that, my sister and I enjoy practicing yoga right before we sleep, to revitalize our spirits and to get our minds at ease. I love my sister and I adore her company very much. She's so helpful that she usually offers to help me with my chores at home like doing the dishes, cleaning the house, keeping it organized, and cooking food, we even share these tasks sometimes. However, walking my precious little "daisy" is a chore I can never say no to.

Most of my friends are my age and we share lots of similarities as well as differences. Whether we meet up at my friend's house to make snacks, or we go to the cinema to watch a movie or even go on an adventure to discover new "corners" of our city with a breathtaking view. It always ends up fun. Not to forget our hangouts at the beach as my country has the most jaw-dropping beaches you can ever find. Everything here is cozy and aesthetic. Whenever I look at the beach I feel a weird sensation of relief. It helped me through tough times and it got me through a lot. It was more like an imaginary therapist that held your hand and told you "you'll be fine.."

When I grow up I want to become a therapist, to be able to comfort others in their time of need, to understand their struggles, and to show them compassion, empathy, support, and care. I want to be the one that makes them feel like they belong. I want to cheer them up draw a smile on their faces. I want to hold their hand and tell them "you'll be fine.." From this exchange experience, I aim to reach my full potential and see how far I can go. I want to make new connections, create long-lasting friendships and hopefully, leave a positive impact on them. This program will surely deepen my knowledge and help me enhance my social and communication skills by sharing laughs, food, and home thus, making unforgettable memories together.
