Student Letter

My name is Nicole and I have 17 years old. I am vivacious and I like being active: I always try to do something new. People also see me as artistic, my friend mostly, creative and full of ideas: I like organize birthday parties and trips, and, honestly, I am the best at doing presents, which is an object of pride for me. I'm very dynamic and curious, because of that I like big cities and multiethnic places, with different cultures and people. Another quality that people would mention describing me is that I am very honest.

I love many things, and I have many interests. The biggest one that I also practice more often is certainly sport, it helps me when I am stressed or when I don't feel good. I started do boxing recently, and for now I like it a lot. Sometimes I also do yoga, and I love listening to music or pod cast while I'm doing it. I am really interested in humanities. I am in love with philosophy and psychology, and also neuro-sciences and literature. I read a lot of articles, books and I saw documentaries and listen to podcast about it.

For now I'm interested in some jobs like: journalist, or maybe writer, but it seems exiting being a researcher too (which would mean studying biology or ecology). I want to understand what is my place in the world.
